

Adam Loretto

ASSISTANT DIRECTOR

Born and raised in Topeka, KS, Adam moved east for college and never left. Adam is an associate professor of English and writing at Grove City College. He serves as director of the Writing Program and coordinator for the Humanities core. His role as assistant director of the CRM will see him coordinate research, assessment, and aspects of programming.

Adam is excited about the CRM because it recognizes that Christian colleges, rural communities, and pastors need each other to fulfill their God-given missions and help each other thrive.

